Notes:

The numbers above are estimates of how much inventory we think we will be able to offer for the balance of SY2012 along with the orders placed in ACDS at the time of the report.

The percentages show about how much of your May order you can expect to receive when orders exceed supply. For additional details, see individual commodities below.

Remember that this information is very volatile and changes every time an order for the particular commodity is placed, changed or canceled by you or other agencies.

We will update this information periodically and more often as we get close to the final day to order (April 23, 2012).

We hope you will use this information to get the most commodities possible with your remaining SY2012 PAL $$.
